ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Be ready to hear the truth.

CHAPTER 1

No one was ever bounded, and no one was ever burning, the disappearance gave birth to mythologies to overcome the truth, but the truth is inevitable and there is no room for stopping or slowing down anymore.

No chain... No fire...
No hold back no more,
No hide... No legends...
You know this for sure,

The era is inevitable...
The era is to be,
Invisible to be shown...
No eyes needed to see,

Is he who you're thinking...
Is he was always me,
Ask no more to know it...
The truth inside me

You saw and you knew it...

Therefore you've always searched,

Search no more and see it...

The truth is now etched,

Behold the black sky...

Lookup for who is he,

The island to be sinking...

No chain to the tree.

CHAPTER 2

They deliberately hid me so I deliberately misled them, but I was always by your side, I always offered you clue after clue, there is no longer a need for this game, the last alignment is coming and I found what I was looking for.

They told you I was under...
They told them I was chained,
They thought I was someone...
They never to them explained,

I told them what to tell you...
I teach them what to decline,
The truth was always beside you...
They always had a sign,

The time was all I needed...
The time was always mine,
You and them to know it...
Just read under the line,

The red where I've been in...
Waiting for the last align,
To the red they hold back...
What allows was mine,

The journey back to start...
A road to back and rule,
No more delay is needed...
For I have the jewel.

CHAPTER 3

You have introduced yourselves to me and there is no need to search for you anymore, all you have to do is to accept entering through the door, and to go through the open doors use the key.

The crown is now released...
I know each one of you,
Who is gone no longer needed...
For them, nothing else to do,

It's time for you to believe it...
For this I gave the clue,
The door is widely open...
For those who want to go through,

Hold the line when you see it...
The time soon to start,
The line is the path...
For you to play your part,

Follow them when they ask you...

With them ride the cart,

A word to be the key...

The word to be Hitchart,

Remember your key and hold it...

For this is my advice,

No pain is more needed...

No need to more sacrifice.

CHAPTER 4

Five stars will precede another five. Look at the sky and get to know them. Watching the stars means believing the truth. The truth is that we will meet very soon.

The hope reached the purpose...
This is for you the Two,
The One is the yellow room...
Now is red and blue,

Three yet to become...
Behold the home of sun,
A giant to lead the road...
The two to become one,

The Four is inside the sand...
A smile of the laughing son,
A new wave to be resting...
On a shore with no gun,

Pyramid is to open...
To light the choosing path,
This is the Five and after...
North becomes south,

Those words to be counted...
Thus five more to be,
The sun will back again...
Five more to thee.

CHAPTER 5

Five more stars after the sun returns to its home, watch them and know that our meeting is inevitable by the fifth one.

The bell no longer ringing...
A sunny day at noon,
The day comes after...
A night lightened by a full moon,

That is the Six and after...
The Seven is in the sky,
No birds to fly no more...
No matter how hard they try,

Twin eyes cry no more...
The Eight is when the flood,
Rainy days on the stones...
Streets filled with mud,

Lost land emerged from under...
Behold it in the sea,
For nine days for you to remember...
This is Nine to be,

The wall unleashes the secret...
To the king bring the chair,
This Ten and after...
Behold me standing there.

That is the inevitable truth, the truth yet to come.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Growing up with a dream is a beautiful thing, having that dream come true is even more beautiful; this is the case for Maher Asaad Baker. Maher has been building up his career since his teens, starting by developing applications and websites while exploring various types of media creating paths. Today he is one of the most recognized graphic designers and visual artists.

Maher started his career in 1997 with a dream of being one of the well-known artists in the world, at his first year in the university he discovered the world of digital graphics which was evolving side by side with the revolution of computer programming, with all these new technologies he started teaching himself programming and digital drawing which was a very slow and costly process yet a very useful experience.

To support his dream he started developing software for individual customers which was a time-consuming process, finally, he had to leave the university to follow his dream, he started his first programming team that worked on developing commercial software's, while he moved on to studying digital drawing and visual effects which was a long term process.

Maher has participated in many forms of production from visual effects, to directing commercials, promos and short films, He started his own team which has grown and widely participated in many projects.

Although finally his dream come true, he discovered that life is not one dream, it's not about achieving your dream, it's about to keep dreaming and keep achieving your dreams, this is what life is all about, maybe you'll fall down, maybe life treats you bad, but that is never enough to break you down, Maher is still dreaming so should we all do.
